A Fact of Life
by Esther "Billie" Mellon

For years and years
My dentist would say,
"Floss those teeth two times a day."
Now that I am old and gray
I found myself flossing my dentures today.

Eiptaph
by Michael De Leone

When you think of me think of a slight breeze blowing, the afternoon sun warming your skin the smell of fresh grass on a spring day only the good times
when you think of me

A Step Beyond
by E. D. Capone

Delicate lace upon my skin
Removing it can't be a sin
My white shoulders; your caress Trembling as we, scared, progress

Chorus:

A night of passion is the goal
The key to love is what we hold
In our hands
We've got the time
A step beyond the danger line

Take the lace and let it fall down Take me to the place you've found Fill me with your warm embrace I'll take your leather; take my lace

Chorus:

A night of passion in the sand
Lost innocence
An unknown land
In our minds there is no crime
There's not...beyond the danger line
